Professional Perfume Compounding

The aims of this course are to provide information and guidance to employees in the perfume laboratory to successfully supplement their practical training as a perfume compounder. It's clearly written, introduces complex topics as simply as possible and is suitable for all people, including new starters.

The course helps develop new knowledge which can be put to practical use straight away. There is an optional final multiple choice test, taken on line, which helps determine how successfully the course material has been understood. A Professional Perfume Compounding certificate is awarded to people who successfully complete the test.

The 31 page course professionally explores terms and techniques relating to the compounders role in the fragrance laboratory through the following chapters:

Chapter 1 The perfume business

Chapter 2 Perfume formulations and ingredients

Chapter 3 Ingredient handling

Chapter 4 Compounding methods

The written material includes an introduction to the perfume business through key roles and processes, perfume as a product and raw materials used within it. Compounding techniques are explored with specific attention given to known problem areas such as:

Weight relationships, dilutions and calculating percentages

Handling materials correctly in relation to quality, storage, isomers and avoiding contamination

Health & safety, hazard and minimising risk through safe practices and use of protective equipment
